

TURKISH HAZELNUT WEEKLY SHIPMENT REPORT

Weekly

Seasonal

Not much to report this week. Prices are relatively stable for the main items. Demand is lower compared to May for the time being. Many merchants, growers, and crackers are willing to hold their product till to the new crop, as the current levels are very low for them and they wish to see the market in September after TMO starts buying. Prices are now may be first time lower than US and Chili first time this season. We hear more about BMSB activity as now it is time for them to come to the orchards. Spraying is very low especially in small orchards and big ones are doing some but enough as there need to be more coordinated system. We will follow up more closely.
